Solutions for Handling Row Crops

For over 90 years, Sambrailo Packaging has supported the produce industry with numerous innovative packaging solutions. The desire to improve produce-handling methods was what prompted Charles Sambrailo to establish the company in 1923 and continues to drive our product and service offerings today. Growers count on us for high-quality packaging, responsive customer service, and resource management solutions that can improve their efficiencies and meet their packaging needs.

Integrated Services and Resource Management Solutions

Product Development: We offer a wide array of boxes in standard sizes and stock prints. For large orders, we can custom design any box size to fit your needs and we can print custom graphics specific to your brand that will enhance your marketing message and retail appeal.

Quality Control and Assurance: Our Quality and Innovations team will work with you to evaluate the quality of your current boxes. We apply industry standard testing protocols to ensure that the boxes we supply maintain a high level of product quality with each and every delivery.

Forecasting and Procurement: Estimating how much packaging will be needed to handle your output from the field is an ongoing challenge. In response to growers' requests, we can assist you with forecasting and procure the right amount of inventory to help you prepare for peak production.

Inventory Management and Grower Issuance: With multiple locations throughout California, you'll have peace of mind knowing that we can manage your packaging inventory and can deliver it to your packing facility or directly to your fields when you need it.

Our row crop boxes come in dry or waxed options for various commodities and packing procedures. You can rely on the quality of our boxes to safely pack and ship your fresh vegetables.

- Large ventilation holes help minimize spoilage.
- Self-locking closures help to reduce product loss.
- Space provided to identify product and grower/packer.
- Waxed boxes are coated inside and out to resist humidity and damage from moisture.
- Custom print boxes are available.
